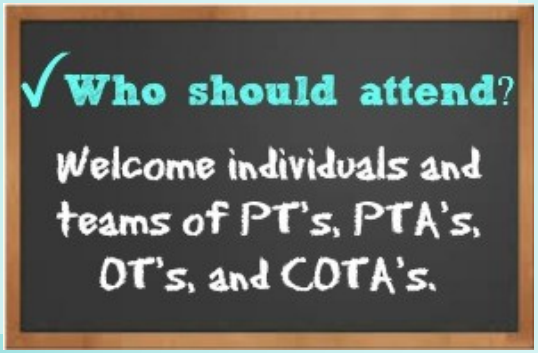
Creating Rehab Solutions for an Aging Population

Saturday, March 22, 2014
Nazareth College
Otto A.Shults Community Center

Submitted for CEU approval for Physical and Occupational Therapy for 7 contact hours.

Course Description:

The anticipated growth of the elderly population is impacting all facets of the health care system. Providers who care for this population are routinely faced with challenges to best restore function and quality of life. This robust, one day course is designed to expand clinicians' knowledge and skills in the area of rehabilitation among the aging population. Respected providers will examine best practice strategies utilized across all levels of both the Physical and Occupational Therapy disciplines. This will include trends in the healthcare environment, respiratory function, assistive device prescription, joint arthroplasty, environmental modifications, generation gaps, and exercise prescription. Each session will include evidence-based instruction to enhance general clinical practices, as well as techniques to incorporate into therapy sessions the next day.



Seating is limited... please register early.

Course Objectives:

Upon completion of this course the attendees will achieve the following objectives in relation to care of the aging population:

1. Understand current trends in the healthcare environment as it impacts therapy practice.
2. Compare and contrast different seating solutions in order to maximize respiratory function in a wheelchair.
3. Recognize the impact of a team approach to respiratory system performance.
4. Contrast differing assistive device prescriptions based on current evidence.
5. Describe key elements of the contemporary approach to knee arthroplasty.
6. Identify generational differences and their impact on clinical practice.
7. Explore strategies to optimize functional independence through environmental modifications.
8. Discuss the progression of rehabilitation treatments for joint replacement.

Registration Fees:

- ⇒ $85.00 if registered before March 7th
- ⇒ $110.00 if registered after March 7th
- ⇒ Cancellation Policy: Cancellations must be received no later than March 17th at 5pm to receive refund.

We apologize for the inconvenience but please note there is NO group rate.

Flower City Habitat for Humanity Rochester, NY

All Proceeds From Registration Will Be Donated To Flower City Habitat for Humanity: Aging in Place Program.

Flower City Habitat for Humanity's Aging in Place program helps low-income elderly homeowners improve their homes by adding functionalities like rails, ramps, and other upgrades that aid in accessibility; allowing these residents to safely stay in their current homes longer.
