

NEW this spring. . . P(EQ) Courses!!!

As you are probably aware, a new core curriculum will be implemented for new students who enter Nazareth in the fall of 2013. This spring, we will be moving forward with implementation of the new core by offering P(EQ), or Perspectives Enduring Questions, courses. These courses grapple with one (or more) enduring question(s), and through this exploration introduce students to a particular discipline. Further, they have significant global or cultural content, and employ writing-to-learn strategies.

How do P(EQ) courses count towards the current core?

- They count as a PI in the Perspectives area in which the subject falls.
- They count as a writing intensive (W) course.
- They count as a global (G) course.
- They can be used to fulfill all three of these requirements at one time!

How do I know which courses are P(EQ)s?

- These courses are easily identified. Look for a ".Q" following the subject in the course number! (Examples: MTH.Q102 and ENGL.Q140)
- P(EQ) FYS courses will be indentified with a ".F" following the subject.
